EFFORT MADE TO IRON OUT BERLIN ISSUE

United States, Britain and France Get Together
On Basic German
Policies

FIVE ISSUES AT STAKE

Washington, April 6—(P)—The United States, Britain and France are undertaking a major effort to iron out their differences over three-power control of western Germany.

Diplomatic officials agreed today that if the three can get together on basic German policies it will mark another milestone in the growing unity of the non-Communist west.

Secretary of State Acheson, British Foreign Minister Bevin and French Foreign Minister Schuman held preliminary talks on the German problem last week while Atlantic power foreign ministers were gathering here to sign the North Atlantic Treaty.

They will try in the next few days to reach basic agreements which they can then pass on to subordinates in London, Paris and Berlin with instructions to work out details.

Diplomatic informants said the preliminary talks had pointed up five issues:

The issues, as authoritatively reported, are:

1. The extent of occupation machinery over western Germany in connection with the proposed merger of all three zones. The French are understood to favor creation of three-power control agencies for each German state. The alternative would be to merge the zones with three power agencies at the top but leave administration in each zone in the hands of the occupying authority.
2. Development of an occupation statute. This document would spell out the powers reserved to the occupation governors of Germany and specify those which the German government could exercise. The United States in general has favored broad definitions of authority and the French are understood to favor setting down a detailed list of matters on which the German government could act without allied approval.
3. How to vote in the three-power control agencies. Many ex-

Inquiry Into State Public Assistance Program May Win Senate Committee Approval

Harrisburg, April 6—(P)—A proposal for a sweeping inquiry into public assistance in Pennsylvania may win senate committee approval today.

Chairman Paul L. Wagner (R-Schuylkill) said legislation submitted by Sens. Fred P. Hare, Jr. (R-Somerset) and T. Newell Wood (R-Luzerne) would be up for consideration at a meeting of the state government committee.

"Although I don't know how the committee stands, I have heard quite a bit of talk about the problem," Wagner said. "If we are going to have an inquiry it should be thorough."

With the drive toward adjournment moving into high gear, these other issues headed toward decisions:

School buses. The senate education committee put at the top of its list house-passed legislation to require automobile traffic to halt for school buses loading or unloading on public highways.

School buildings. The house Republican leadership slated a final vote on a senate-passed measure broadening the powers of the Public School Building Authority established in 1947.

Sen. A. H. Letzler (R-Clearfield), at the same time said it is unlikely any action will come in the senate until next week on the controversial question of revising the state's liquor laws on the licensing of clubs.

Meanwhile proponents of changes in truck weights and fair employment practice laws received stunning setbacks in the general assembly.

The senate highways committee pigeon-holed indefinitely a house-passed measure to increase the legal weight limits of commonly used tractor-trucks. The vote was 13-9 by secret ballot.

An hour later, the senate judiciary committee tabled an administration-backed FEPC law by an-

Judge Wade Standing Pat on His Sentence

Pittsburgh, April 6—(P)—Visiting Judge Allison D. Wade of Warren county today stood by the jail sentence he had imposed on a Pittsburgh man convicted of numbers activities.

Judge Wade said he had no intention of changing the sentence although he had been "approached twice to reconsider the decision" in the case of Louis Marinacci. He added:

"I felt the sentence was just and I will not change my mind about it."

Marinacci was fined $100 and given a 30 to 60 day jail term. His lawyer protested that the local policy was to put first offenders on probation.

Spite Blamed In Shooting Of Business Man

New York, April 6—(P)—The street shooting of former Republican Congressman Ellisworth E. Buck was termed by authorities today as a "spite job."

Buck, 58, shot three times and seriously wounded as he left his Staten Island office yesterday, was reported in "satisfactory" condition at a hospital today.

His assailant was captured by pedestrians as he sought to flee through an evening rush hour crowd.

Police identified him as Charles Van Newkirk, 57, an ex-merchant marine engineer from Amherst, N. H.

District Attorney Herman Methfessel, who witnessed the shooting, said Van Newkirk admitted firing the bullets from a .38 caliber revolver. He was held on charges of felonious assault with intent to kill.

The accused man was quoted as saying his action stemmed from a "spite" decision once rendered against him by a congressional committee headed by Buck.

The Richmond county district attorney said Van Newkirk was dismissed as commander in the (Turn to Page Seven)

Correspondents In Capital Stage Annual Gridiron Show

Harrisburg, April 6—(P)—Legislature correspondents—the men who wait patiently for words or acts from the governor and other officials—had their say last night.

Cowboy style, they lampooned Republican and Democratic figures alike at the 27th biennial dinner and gridiron show of the Pennsylvania Legislative Correspondents Association.

Guests included Gov. James H. Duff, United States Senator Frank B. Rowland, and Edward Martin and State Party Chairmen M. Harvey Taylor, Republican, and Philip Mathews, Democrat. Other high state officials, lobbyists and members of the legislature also attended.

Duff was the chief target for humor written around the theme of "Big Red's Roundup at The Bar Nothing Ranch." A subtitle might be: "Gov. Duff's Daring Doings with the 1949 Legislature."

Skits were written by the newspapermen covering the general assembly and were portrayed by members of the Harrisburg community theater.

Horatio at the Bridge had nothing on Jim Duff as depicted in one of the skits. It showed a car carrying Sen. Wade (R-Cumberland) being stopped at Harrisburg toll bridge by Duff.

Contending that the bridge could not stand up under more than one candidate at a time, Duff confiscated Wade's car and replaced a sign reading "Wade For Governor" with one bearing the legend "Duff For President."

Other skits poked fun at the Liquor Control Board, The State Milk Control Commission, the Public Utility Commission and teachers, manufacturers, and lobbyists.

More Cabs Appear On N. Y. Streets

New York, April 6—(P)—An increasing number of taxis poured back onto New York streets today as direction of the five-day-old taxicab strike was turned over to a new leader.

More than twice the number of cabs operating at the same time yesterday cruised the streets today. Police said 2,868 were rolling at 7 a. m. today compared to 1,037 at the same time yesterday.

"A real normal morning with enough cabs for everyone," said a policeman at Grand Central terminal.

Almost 40 per cent of the normal number of cabs were operating last night, according to police estimate, as Leon Zwicker withdrew as regional director of John L. Lewis' catch-all union. He was replaced by Walter Brock, regional director of the United Construction Workers at New Haven, Conn.

ILLINOIS FIRE VICTIMS NOW TOTAL EIGHTY

Forty-six Victims of Blaze
Which Destroyed St.
Anthony Hospital
Identified

THIRTEEN ARE BABIES

Effingham, Ill., April 6—(P)—The toll of known dead and reported missing in the nation's second most tragic hospital fire stood at 80 today.

Fifty bodies were removed from the ruins of St. Anthony's Hospital, destroyed by flames within an hour early Tuesday.

In addition, 34 persons were reported missing on a list compiled by Associated Press reporters and official sources at the scene. At least 54 persons were reported as survivors.

More bodies were dug from the rubble today as the heartick city of 8,000 began burying some of the 13 newborn babies who perished.

At nearby St. Anthony's Roman Catholic church the Rev. Gerald Weigand sang a requiem mass for the repose of the souls of all the dead.

The flag on the courthouse dropped at half-mast. Catholic schools were dismissed. Thousands of persons still gathered around the hospital's blackened walls and at temporary morgues.

The inspectors, meanwhile, investigated unconfirmed reports that stored paint or an arsonist might have caused the fire. The FBI in Chicago and state police at Effingham denied a published story that they were investigating an arson report. The Mother Superior of the hospital nuns said the only stored paint was in the underground boiler room.

Fire at the hospital, the only one in this south-central Illinois community of 8,600 were lost.

However, the hospital believed there were 124 persons—patients and staff members—in the 62 year old institution, operated by the Catholic Order of St. Francis, when the fire broke.

The number of survivors was estimated at 85 by the Red Cross. Firemen said most of the survivors suffered in some degree from burns or smoke, but only one was reported in critical condition.

Among the known dead were two nuns, the hospital's chaplain, and three nurses.

Inspectors from the Illinois State Fire Marshal's office, headed by Chief Fred W. Kelley, investigated the fire. Fire Chief Fred W. Kelley said he would cooperate with inspectors in an attempt to determine cause of the fire.

Maurice Rickelman, Effingham county state's attorney, declined comment when asked if his office planned an investigation of the deaths.

Willkins said he discounted a report that leaking gas caused the blaze which sent flames racing through the old structure with such speed that scores of patients were trapped in their rooms. Many of the patients were believed to have perished without a chance to leave their beds.

Effingham, stunned by one of the worst fire disasters in Illinois history, planned a day of mourning tomorrow. "The nation's most tragic hospital fire was one which killed 124 persons in the Cleveland, O., Clinic Hospital of George W. Crile on May 15, 1929."

COMMITTEE APPROVES SCHOOL BUS MEASURE

Harrisburg, April 6—(P)—The senate education committee approved today a house-passed bill requiring automobile traffic to halt while school buses are loading or discharging pupils.

Chairman Frederick L. Homsher (R-Lancaster) said the committee (re-lancaster) said the measure to report to the senate without making any amendments. Under legislative procedure, the bill could come up for a vote next week.

The measure requires that automobile traffic shall come to a halt not less than ten feet from a school bus loading or discharging passengers except in a business or residential district.

Chiefs Plan Another Visit With Gen. Ike

Washington, April 6—(P)—Operating chiefs of the three armed services will go to Key West Thursday to resume conferences with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The general, recalled from the presidency of Columbia University for temporary duty as chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, is recuperating there from a stomach ailment.

The staff discussions are expected to last into next week, the Department of National Defense said.

A blunt warning that if they violate orders against public squabbles they will face a congressional investigation goes with the generals and admirals to Key West. The house armed services committee posted that notice yesterday in a resolution.

Perhaps in observance of that warning, the announcement of the Key West trip included a notation that "there will be no press conference at Key West in connection with these meetings."

Senate Near Adoption Of Recovery Bill

Washington, April 6—(P)—Republican floor leader Wherry of Nebraska picked today for senate passage of the $5,580,000,000 European Recovery Program.

But Democratic Leader Lucas of Illinois was pessimistic as he called senators into the 11th session since March 23 in an effort to get final action. The meeting time was an hour early again.

Lucas openly charged that some GOP leaders "don't want the congress to get anything done."

Wherry told a reporter, however, he saw no reason why a final vote can't be reached by tonight.

And Senator Connally (D-Text) chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee and floor manager for the ECA bill, agreed with Wherry. "I think we will finally make it," Connally said after a 1-hour session yesterday failed again to bring this. "There is only one real issue remaining and that should be compromised."

Connally was referring to protests by both Democratic and Republican senators against Dutch activities in Indonesia despite United Nations attempts to adjust difficulties there.

He mentioned a compromise worked out by Senators Vandenberg (R-Mich.), Pepper (D-Pa.) and Brewster (R-Me.).

It would withdraw Marshall plan aid to The Netherlands if the United Nations decides to use sanctions to enforce its order for the Dutch to cease fire, release Indonesian authorities and in general (Turn to Page Seven)

Eberharter Seems Choice For Judgeship

Washington, April 6—(P)—Rep. Eberharter (D-Pa.) today was recommended by Senator Myers (D-Pa.) for appointment as a federal judge in the Western Pennsylvania District.

Senator Myers said he had sent the recommendation to the White House this morning.

Eberharter would succeed Judge R. M. Gibson, a Republican, who resigned Jan. 31.

Myers' recommendation is subject to approval by Attorney General Clark.

Eberharter is serving his 7th consecutive term in the house.

Eberharter was one of two dozen candidates for the judgeship.

He had the recommendation of the Pennsylvania Democratic Congressional delegation, with one exception. Rep. Kelley had held out for John O'Connell, district attorney of Westmoreland county.

Considered among the top possibilities for the job in recent months, other than Eberharter, were Primo Columbus of Pittsburgh, onetime assistant U. S. attorney, Owen Burns, the present U. S. attorney at Pittsburgh; Anne X. Alperin, city solicitor of Pittsburgh; O'Connell, and David Weiner, county solicitors of Washington county.

Party Leaders Differ Over Michigan Election Results

Washington, April 6—(P)—Republicans insisted today the votes that bloomed for their ticket in Michigan's spring election are the first signs of a midwest GOP harvest in 1950.

But Democrats contended that the sweep which gave the Republicans all of the state offices not appointed by a Democratic governor has nothing to do with the case elsewhere.

Senator Taft of Ohio, head of the senate GOP policy committee, told a reporter the Michigan results are "a very good omen for the party all along."

Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the assistant Democratic leader, said he sees nothing significant in the fact that a state which went for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey—although it elected Democratic Gov. C. Mennen Williams—is putting Republicans in other offices.

Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the floor leader, read into the Michigan victory what he called a "terrific reaction" by the people against President Truman's program.

Both major parties have been looking to the midwest as the battleground in the 1950 congressional elections.

Michigan, for instance, has three Republican congressmen who were elected by less than 55 per cent of the vote in their district in last November's election. In fact, one of them, Rep. William W. Black, may win by only 49.6 per cent of the ballots cast in a race with more than two entries.

Hot senate races are in prospect in Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Iowa, Wisconsin and Ohio. Those same states have 42 congressional districts in which a change of 5 per cent or less in the vote could have altered the last November results when 21 of the seats went to Democrats and an equal number to Republicans.

High Officials Join Nation In Paying Tribute to Army

By The Associated Press
The United States paid tribute to its Army today as Gen. Omar Bradley, the army's commander, called for moves to strengthen Europe immediately against possible aggression.

In an address at New York last night on the eve of Army Day the army chief of staff asserted:

"Strategically, the North Atlantic Pact would enable free nations of the old world and the new to funnel the great strength of our new world to the ramparts of the old, and thus challenge an enemy where he would transgress."

"At present, the balance of military power is centered in the United States, 3,000 miles from the heart of Europe."

In Washington the general's call for common defense of western Europe heralds a new phase in the senate demands for estimates of the cost of re-arming the pact members.

The other services joined in to pay tribute, with scheduled talks by Secretary of the Navy Sullivan at Syracuse, N. Y., Secretary of Air Symington at Montgomery, Ala., and Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Air Force chief of staff, at Baltimore, Md.

The army's civilian chief, Secretary Royal, went to Chicago to make an Army Day address there, with Assistant Secretary Gray listed for a talk at Milwaukee. And army deputy chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, was due for another in Philadelphia.

This may be the last "Army Day" celebration.

The national military establishment is studying suggestions that, in the spirit of unification, it might be well to abandon the separate "days" for the Army, Navy and Air Force and observe a single day for the combined armed forces.

The idea had strong support from Bradley himself.

Army Day was founded in 1928 by the military order of the World War, officially recognized by an act of Congress in 1937.

Setting the keynote today was a scheduled parade down Constitution avenue in Washington. President Truman, with his cabinet and other high government officials, had places in the reviewing stand south of the White House.

Details are Revealed On School Expansion Program

Interest has been widespread throughout the community since discussions first got under way on Warren's proposed public school building program, but most of the details have remained in the planning stage and have not been publicly announced.

Recent action taken by the board, however, has brought the start of the program a bit nearer, with a four-room annex to the Home street building as the first step to be taken in the plans contemplated by the school district.

The purpose of this addition at Home street school is to make possible the housing of the first, six grades and possibly a kindergarten. At present, the four classrooms accommodate only the first five grades and sixth grade students must go to the Johnson building.

Final plans for this annex have not been submitted by the architects but in general they will provide for the additions to be located on the southeast end of the present building, extending eastward approximately 80 feet from the east wall of the old building. A corridor running eastward from the present rear entrance will divide the annex. On the south side of the corridor will be two oversize rooms for first grade pupils; on the north side, a room which will be fitted for kindergarten assignment and a room which will be a combination auditorium playroom with a stage.

When this annex will be completed, probably in the next year or two, sixth grade pupils, some of whom have to walk over a mile to Johnson, will be assigned to this building. Some pupils in grades one to six now in the Johnson school territory will be housed in this enlarged elementary plant.

The cost of this annex is estimated at $82,000, which can be financed from funds now on hand or to be on hand within the next year.

The plans for the new Johnson elementary building have been approved in their preliminary stages by the board of school directors (Turn to Page Seven)

Official Lists Kene High Team as Winner

Farrell, April 6—(P)—Harold Leberman, PIAA official in charge of last night's Class B championship game, said today he sent a report to Harrisburg listing Kane as winner of the disputed game with Ashley.

"The final score on the scoreboard showed Kane 45, Ashley 44," Leberman said today. "That's what I sent to Harrisburg. If there has been any protest, I don't know anything about it."

Leberman, principal of East High School in Erie, and chairman of PIAA District 10, said an official protest would have to be made in writing to C. Edmund Wicht, PIAA executive secretary.

Wicht checked out of a Pittsburgh Hotel early today and was reported enroute to Harrisburg. He is expected there later today.

Ashley high school officials said last night they would protest the "last-second" field goal which apparently gave Kane the championship.

Coach St. Jablonski and Principal George Brezmay of Ashley say the goal was shot after the game was over. They want Ashley, eastern regional winner, declared state champion.

PROTEST IS RECEIVED

Lake Success, April 6—(P)—The United States proposed today that the U. N. Assembly decide whether Communist prosecution of Josef Cardinal Minozzini violated the Hungarian peace treaty.

The U. S. proposal also would have the assembly look into Bulgaria's trial of 15 Protestant clergymen.

The American move brought a quick protest from the Soviet bloc. Polish delegate J. J. Suchy challenged the right of the U. N. to deal with the trials at all, contending that these were strictly internal matters.

Hungary, although not a member of the U. N., protested in a communication received yesterday against any U. N. review of the Mindszenty case.

Warren R. Austin, chief U. S. delegate, offered the American suggestion in the assembly's 14-nation steering committee as a substitute for Australian and Bolivian proposals concerning prosecutions of the Hungarian Protestants and the Bulgarian Protestants.

The committee is expected to decide whether the assembly should take up the issue at its current session which opened yesterday at Flushing Meadow Park, New York. The delegates moved to Lake Success this morning for a series of committee meetings.

Austin's move came as Russia and the western powers squared off for their opening battle of the session.

This fight may serve as a curtain-raiser for the expected east-west clash over the newly-signed North Atlantic Pact.

Russia's No. 1 deputy foreign minister, Andrei A. Gromyko, failed to launch his expected blast at the pact at yesterday's opening session of the general assembly. Most delegates, however, feel sure he is preparing an attack.

The first round of the fight over Mindszenty and 15 imprisoned Bulgarian Protestants was scheduled to take place in the assembly's 14-nation steering committee at 10:30 a. m.

Russia is expected to try to keep the committee from recommending assembly debate as requested by Bolivia and Australia. The Hungarian government, although not a member of the U. N., has sent a formal protest to Assembly President Herbert E. Evatt of Australia against U. N. intervention.

Mindszenty and other Hungarians were convicted by a Hungarian court in January of black-market activities and of plotting to overthrow the government. He was sentenced to life imprisonment. Fifteen Bulgarian Protestant leaders were sentenced to varying terms on similar charges in Sofia.

Washington, April 6—(P)—Gen. Omar Bradley's call for "common defense" of western Europe's borders spurred fresh senate demands today for estimates on the cost of rearming North Atlantic Pact countries.

The army chief of staff told Jewish war veterans in New York last night that a military aid program is an "essential sequel" to the signing of the 12-nation treaty, that prompted Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the GOP floor leader, to tell a reporter:

"That certainly cinches my belief that the senate ought to know all about the arms program before it votes on the North Atlantic Pact."

Chairman Connally (D-Text) of the senate foreign relations committee said he thinks Bradley was "talking sense" when he said: "It must be perfectly apparent" (Turn to Page Seven)

Price Tag On Pension Bill Is Disturbing

Washington, April 6—(P)—Congressional backers of a proposed "low-cost" veterans pension bill were somewhat disturbed today by a multi-billion dollar price tag put on it by the Veterans Administration. They called in more veterans representatives for advice.

The house veterans committee is considering a bill by Rep. Rankin (D-Miss.) as a successor to one killed by the house two weeks ago.

The new bill as it stands applies only to World War I veterans and reduces the proposed pension payment from $30 to $72 a month. However, a pending proposal would also include World War II veterans. The Veterans Administration said the combination would cost $77,000,000,000 in the next 50 years, one for World War I alone, $17,000,000,000.

The committee yesterday heard from John Thomas Taylor, legislative representative of the American Legion.

Taylor contended that "cost should not be a consideration" in establishing a general service pension. The Legion spokesman called on the committee to give first consideration to the principle that all war veterans were entitled to pensions at age 65.

Some members indicated they wanted to recall Taylor for questioning on a statement attributed to him in the Legion's legislative bulletin of March 24.

In it, they said, Taylor is said to have written "We have been successful in the past in defeating the bill opposed just and proper benefits for veterans."

Oakland Cemetery Expansion Program Outlined in Report

A considerable expansion program providing sites for additional graves in Oakland cemetery was carried out during the past year, it was reported last night at the annual meeting of the Oakland cemetery.

The meeting was held in conjunction with the regular session of the Warren T.O.O.F. Lodge No. 339, which operates the cemetery as a trust.

F. W. Miller, president of the Oakland Board of Trustees, said the expansion work included the extension of the Single Graves section to accommodate 500 additional graves, and the addition of 43 lots having 134 graves to Section 33. In addition, Section AA has been finished, graded and seeded, and will be ready for use this year, and a large area adjoining Sections 4 and 38 has been graded and is ready for seeding. It is expected that this section will be available for use during the latter part of the year.

The annual report also showed there were 173 interments and one removal at Oakland cemetery during the 12-month period ending February 28, and that the tent was used 37 times at funerals.

A report on the perpetual care and special trust funds listed a total of $26,000 invested in U. S. government bonds and in mortgages on improved real estate. In addition, fixed assets for Oakland cemetery, including improved roads, buildings, water and sewer drain lines, trucks and other equipment, and developed and undeveloped real estate is valued at $176,000.

W. J. McIntyre was installed as exalted ruler of the Warren Lodge of Elks at a well attended meeting held last evening. Other new officers for the coming year are: R. J. Weigle, leading knight; L. M. Whiteshot, loyal knight; J. C. MacDonald, lecturing knight; E. M. Branch, Jr., esquire. Frank Mason, chaplain, Ronald Fredericks, liler, J. C. Goblinger, inner guard, M. L. Jordan, organist; Claude Schindler, treasurer; R. L. Ruhlman, secretary, and P. C. Ostergard, trustee.

Installation was in charge of John Handel, of Punxsutawney, past district deputy, who was assisted by the following members of Punxsutawney lodge: Russell Parsons, J. Edward Doran, Clyde Allen, Joseph Chunan, John North, Walter Bair, Bert S. Burns, past district deputy, of Reynoldsville, also assisted.

The ceremony took place during the regular April meeting, during which a number of important announcements were made. It was stated that the pool and billiard tournaments will end next week, and the members were reminded of the annual post-Easter dance to be held Saturday evening, April 23rd. The lodge voted a donation of $25 to the Hot Stove League, and an appropriation was made to the Warren Elks Boy Scout Troop for supplies and equipment. It was also announced that the annual bowling league banquet will be held May 2nd, and tickets will be available at the club.

The installing officer brought greetings from District Deputy Roy Lutz, of Clearfield, who was unable to make the trip because of illness. During his brief remarks, Mr. Handel complimented the lodge and its officers and expressed his pleasure in having an opportunity to again visit Warren. Introductions of those who assisted him were made.

Exalted Ruler McIntyre appointed the following on the budget committee: Ray Weigle, A. A. Albaugh, P. C. Ostergard and H. J. Harvey. He announced that other committee appointments will be made at the next meeting.

PTA Meeting At Sugar Grove Hears Jamestown Speaker

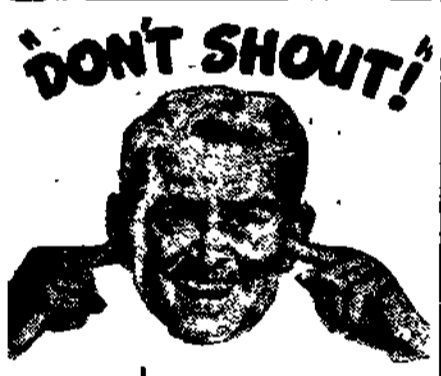

Sugar Grove, April 6—Francis Minella, member of the physical education department of Jamestown, N. Y. schools, was guest speaker for the April meeting of the Sugar Grove-Farmington High School PTA, held in the school auditorium Monday evening.

Mr. Minella was an interesting speaker, tracing the life of a child from infancy to adulthood as an individual, using as illustrations the different traits as they develop and giving suggestions to teachers and parents to help them develop in a responsible manner.

Howard Onink presided at the meeting, which opened with the singing of "America." Principal Everett Landin conducted the devotions, reading scripture and offering prayer. Mrs. Stuart Falconer gave the secretary's report and Carl Norbeck, the treasurer's report.

Mrs. Stohlberg gave the report of the nominating committee and the following officers were elected: President, Howard Onink; vice president, Mrs. Paul Carlberg, Sr.; second vice president, Mrs. Eugene Eckert; secretary, Mrs. Stuart Falconer; treasurer, Mrs. Floyd Nobbs.

Carl Norbeck announced the fol-

Mr. Landin reported on the project of a new movie projector for the school, saying the old one had been repaired and was very satisfactory and suggested the PTA sponsor a banquet for the basketball teams. Mrs. Carlberg, Mrs. Carl Norbeck and Mrs. Falconer were appointed on the committee, with another to be appointed from Lander.

Mr. Onink made a suggestion for a project for next year, the giving of awards for scholarship, which plan will be discussed at future meetings.

Miss Mabel James, an exchange teacher in Jamestown from Eng-

A violin trio, Florence Carlberg, Hazel Ann Miller and June Norbeck, with Ruth Phillips as accompanist, played "Was It a Dream?" and "The Rock That Sheltered Me."

Following the program the group adjourned to the home economics house where buffet refreshments were served, with Mrs. Perry Thelin as chairman.

IMPORTANT ANNIVERSARY

This date 32 years ago, reminds DeWitt MacKenzie, Associated Press foreign affairs analyst, the United States took her place among the allies in World War I with a declaration of hostilities against an aggressive Germany.

Basically that war was the outgrowth of Germanic greed—an urge for expansion at the expense of the other fellow. Or to employ the German euphemism, it was caused by the need for greater lebensraum (living space).

Approximately 22 years later the globe was torn by an even more terrible conflict. Naturally America was among the allies. And of course they called it World War II. Again the basic cause was greed or, if you wish the demand for lebensraum.

Day before yesterday twelve western allies, meeting in Washington, signed the Atlantic Pact. This is a defensive alliance, aimed at protection against aggression whose evil spirit again is hunting trouble. President Truman said in an address regarding this historic treaty:

"It is a simple document, but if it had existed in 1914 and in 1939, supported by the nations who are represented here today, I believe it would have prevented the acts of aggression which led to two world wars."

It's easy to believe that this might have been so. However, one has the feeling that even if the two wars had been prevented then, the world still might have had to endure the agony of an upheaval.

There were great political, territorial and economic problems to be adjusted. There were imperial revisions which inevitably must have come. There were racial freedom to be established. These reforms could only be achieved by major operations.

Many of these things were brought about by the two World Wars. Perhaps in the course of many generations they would have been accomplished through the peaceful development of mankind. Who can say? Certainly if one could choose between quick progress by war and slow progress through peace, the latter must be the choice. Heaven forgive the maker of war!

BAD MANNERS TOWARD VISITORS

Britain's Foreign Minister Bevin was the target of eggs and vegetables when he arrived in this country to sign the North Atlantic Treaty. They were thrown by members of Jewish youth organizations who objected to his handling of the Palestine situation.

Britain's former Prime Minister Churchill, another visitor, was accused in the senate of being a "cold-blooded propagandist" for war and was virtually called a liar to boot. The charges were made by Senator Langer, who refused to accept Mr. Churchill's denial that he fought with Spain against the United States in 1898. "I never was wrong in my life," the self-assured statesman from North Dakota shouted, by way of proving his point.

In our blessedly free country a citizen may be rude within reason. There is no law against it. But the well-bred citizen, as an individual, usually tries to curb any impulse to abuse the privilege. Most of us like to be well thought of. Most of us also realize that differences aren't settled nor wrongs righted by bad manners, however convinced or indignant we may be.

Mr. Bevin, many of us believe, has not always acted justly or honestly toward Israel. But eggs and tomatoes aren't going to make him repent.

LENTEN SERMONETTE

The Rev. J. O. Bishop,
Salem Evangelical United Brethren

"And He, bearing His cross, went forth into a place called the place of a skull . . . where they crucified Him." Jno. 19:17,18.

At Oberammergau some years ago, during the presentation of the "Passion Play," two tourists, a man and his wife, had ventured backstage. They came upon Anton Lang waiting for his cut to take up the cross and begin the tragic journey to Calvary. Eager for a souvenir of the occasion, the wife, holding in her hand the ubiquitous kodak, said to her husband, "Stand over there and let me take a snap of you carrying the cross." In response to her request, the husband walked over to the place where the cross lay and stooped down to pick it up. To his surprise, he discovered that he could not lift it upon his shoulders. With a new-found respect he turned to Anton Lang, exclaiming, "It's heavy! Why is it so heavy?" To which the Christus of the Passion Play replied, "I could not play this part unless I felt the weight of the cross."

"The weight of the cross." We are standing at the threshold of the anniversary of our Lord's Passion. How can we enter with Him into the fellowship of His suffering without feeling the weight of His cross? It is one thing to wear the cross as an emblem or an ornament, but it is something else to bear it as Christ did and sacrifice life upon it. It is so much easier to sing, "In the cross of Christ I glory," than it is to put our back under the cross and make it a fulcrum to lift the wrecks of time and salvage a derelict world.

It Looks Good to Us, Winnie!

Here And There

Ever hear of the theft of a raft containing 50,000 feet of lumber? Well, we never had either, until browsing through a copy of the Warren Ledger printed in the spring of 1882, and came across the following item: "A raft containing about 50,000 feet of lumber was stolen from a point near the Farmlee place, where it was tied up, last Tuesday evening. It belonged to Judge Wetmore. At this writing the thieves have not been apprehended. A boat belonging to the pipe line company—after having been used to lay pipe in the river, as mentioned elsewhere, was also stolen the same night. These seem to be awkward pieces of property to steal and get away with. Undoubtedly the property will be recovered, but the thieves may get away."

Here's another item in the same edition that makes humorous and interesting reading: "The first practical use of the balls and chains, purchased by the authorities some time ago, was made Thursday of this week, on Hickory street. They were attached to a foreigner who had been drinking and insulting ladies. After the jewelry had been adjusted, he sat down with a grunt and refused to do a stroke of work at breaking stone. He will be apt to remain there for some time unless he does his duty."

And another: "The Warren Pipe Line Company have just completed a new three-inch pipe line from the Clarendon field to their 17000 barrel tank below the depot at this place. From Glade Run to the foot of Union street, the pipe was laid in the river. There is already a two-inch line connecting the Glade and Clarendon districts to the tank, but it seems insufficient to carry the oil required for shipment, hence the addition of the three inch line. This indicates the intention of shipping more oil from this point."

Potpourri: Members of the Oil City fire department have announced their organization will sponsor the appearance there in July of the Johnny Jones carnival, whose representative was around seeking a Warren date within the past week. It is the fiftieth annual tour of the popular show . . . More than fifty candidates for this season's Salamancas high school varsity baseball squad are holding workouts there . . . There are many in Warren who can recall the Gay Nineties when every barbershop used to have a row of shelves on which were displayed the individual shaving mugs of the customers—and that was before the time of safety razors. The mugs have gone the way of the hanging lamp, the front parlor sea-shell, the bunch of cat tails tied with ribbon and the family photograph album . . . Al Albaugh, who is president of the Warren County Motor Club, has a couple bruised fingers. Asked what happened, he said he received them changing a tire. Reminded that it was odd that the president of an AAA Club found it necessary to change a tire, he remarked, "I was three miles from a telephone."

WASHINGTON COLUMN

Long Debate, Fireworks Seen At General Assembly Opening

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—U. S. delegates to the United Nations see four issues as likely to provide long debate and some fireworks at the forthcoming General Assembly. The session opens at Flushing Meadows, N. Y., April 5. The big issues will be the Cardinal Mindszenty case, Franco Spain, freedom of information, and disposal of the former Italian colonies.

Like the U. S. Senate, the UN General Assembly will have the filibuster to contend with. With the exception of the Mindszenty case and the admission of Israel to the United Nations, every one of the 21 items on the agenda for this session is a holdover from the Paris meeting of last September-December.

The General Assembly didn't get through its 73-item agenda at Paris. The reason was that Russia and her satellite delegations resorted to a lot of time-killing that slowed up debate. As a result there is now a fairly general impression that the United Nations has degenerated into a kind of international gab fest which never does anything.

The United Nations has a real public relations problem in overcoming this bad reputation. Denmark, Norway and Sweden have proposed to do something about it by changing the General Assembly rules to permit some limitation of debate. It is doubtful if these changes can be made to apply to the coming session. So a talkathon is in prospect on the more controversial issues.

THE Assembly will have to start from scratch on disposal of Italy's prewar African colonies. They are Somaliland, Eritrea and Tripolitania. Italy lost title to them because she started the war on the side of the Axis. They were "liberated" by the Allies. Italy now wants them back under a UN trusteeship agreement. She will have strong support to get them from the western powers at least.

What may come out of the Cardinal Mindszenty case is anybody's guess. Liberation of the cardinal may be demanded. He is now serving life imprisonment on charges of black market dealings and espionage. Hungary, whose Communist government convicted him, is not now a member of the United Nations, though her application is pending. Any action by the General Assembly, censuring Hungary, would reduce her chances of admission.

The question of Franco Spain is two-edged. Poland and other Communist countries want strong United Nations action taken to remove the present Spanish government. Latin-American republics want the 1946 UN resolution against Spain toned down, so that full diplomatic relations may be restored. The Spanish government itself wants admission to some of the UN subsidiaries like World Health Organization and International Aviation. It is probable that ultimately the 1946 resolution will be toned down, though not entirely repealed. Debate over the Spanish question is sure to be sharp, regardless of outcome.

THE question of freedom of information has been before the United Nations since 1946. A conference of 54 nations was held at Geneva last year. It prepared drafts on three agreements. One, submitted by the U. S., provided for free entry of foreign correspondents into member states and the unrestricted transmission of news into and out of foreign countries with minimum censorship. Other proposals were submitted by the British and French. The Russians object to all three on the grounds that they do not require the press to struggle against fascism and to eliminate warmongering.

Inasmuch as the UN Subcommittee on Freedom of Information was given a three-year lease on life, its proposed agreements will probably be around, unsettled, until 1951 or maybe later. Or it adopted by majority vote, the Russian bloc will probably abstain, as it did when the Convention on Human Rights was approved last year.

Interesting Items Taken From The Warren Evening Times

Tionesta musicians have united with the bandmen of Tidoute in joint organization which will serve the interests of the two towns. W. T. Arters of Tidoute has been named director . . . The new farm home like a bit of Old Normandy transported from picturesque northern France, built by H. A. Logan on the Jackson Run Road, has excited the admiration of everyone . . . Stephen Leacock, the great international joshier, noted for his keen wit and his ability to amuse, will be the speaker to appear at the Woman's Club, the latter part of April, according to announcement made by the entertainment committee. . . A fraternal visit of the dramatic editor of the New York Evening World was enjoyed by the Times-Mirror. Bide as ley, in town to speak at the Conewango Club, consented to have the following said of him—Thin, gray, and altogether dilapidated-looking. Owns a dog named Peggy and O. O. McIntyre once said of him that Peggy was following him closely as he strolled through Central Park, thinking, no doubt, that he was a bone. Has a car known as Old Rattletybang, familiar to everyone because of the various breakdowns it has had. Won't sell it despite several offers of $50 for it, because he is a fair man. His age—past twenty and under fifty, but why bring that up?

The Turner Radio Shop was observing its tenth anniversary, with a special month-long sale . . . The courthouse band, composed of employees and officers who exhibit unusual talents on noise-making devices, serenaded Mervyn Serrill Craft and Leola June Ball, both of Youngville, when they applied for a marriage license at the office of Register O. E. Loper . . . Because of demand, Everyman, the play being presented by St. Joseph's players, is to be given for a third and last time . . . In a strike involving eight states, the nation's soft coal industry has come to a halt with 300,000 workers idle . . . The Curtis Publishing Company has stopped retail sales of all its magazines in Germany because Nazi censors recently confiscated several issues of the Saturday Evening Post containing articles dealing with European affairs . . . With the removal of the false front of the Blue and White restaurant, a new entrance has been revealed that it a distinct addition to Liberty street, rapidly being modernized by leading business men . . . Parking conditions on Saturday nights are crowded, with cars parked bumper to bumper. Facilities to relieve congestion are a necessity.

Monday the foreign ministers of twelve western nations met in Washington and signed the Atlantic pact—the most powerful defensive alliance of history. Tuesday the United Nations re-assembled in New York with mixed emotions, for the Atlantic pact is the direct outgrowth of UN inability to fulfill the mission for which it was created, namely, to insure against aggression. The alliance, acting within the framework of the peace organization, proposes taking over defense of its signatories.

This is no reproach on the United Nations. It is the result of conditions over which the UN has no control, that is, the division of a great portion of the globe into hostile ideological groups which are unalterably opposed to each other. So bitter is the conflict between them that there is ever present danger it may develop into another major war.

Because the Security Council of the United Nations has been hamstrung by the division, the western powers have felt impelled to take over the job themselves. So the pact has been signed and will become effective when the legislatures of the various member nations have voted their approval of the action which their governments have taken.

However, while the western powers have thus felt compelled to supplement the United Nations, there is no reason for the peace organization to feel that its standing has been weakened by the move. On the contrary, the alliance is calculated to strengthen the hand of the UN. For in its own big zone of influence, the Atlantic alliance now can act on behalf of peace loving nations against aggression.

FIFTIETH JUBILEE ANNIVERSARY

Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States

FOR 50 years the men who have brought victory to the nation in time of war have labored unceasingly for the national welfare. These fighting veterans are good citizens in peace—as well as in war. They have labored unselfishly for the good of our community. We are proud to salute the Golden Anniversary of this great organization.

VETERANS OF FOREIGN WARS OF THE UNITED STATES

This is the Golden Jubilee Anniversary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States.

Those Spanish-American War veterans who organized the first units of the V.F.W. did so with a definite and far-reaching purpose in mind. That purpose was born of necessity—of compassion for their comrades who had undergone unusual hardships in America's first major war against a foreign foe.

For these men who returned to their homes, fresh from their triumphs in the field of battle, there was no bonus, no nationwide chain of veteran hospitals, no government life insurance, no pensions, no G.I. Bill of Rights. These volunteers who had fought so gallantly in strange lands and on hostile seas, came home to find the American people were not greatly concerned about the problems of returning veterans. From the moment they received their discharge papers, they were on their own.

The founders of the V.F.W. were disturbed, and deeply distressed, by this lack of consideration for their comrades. But, determined as they were to do something about it, they realized fully that they could accomplish little as individuals. Only by raising their voices in unison could these "forgotten men" hope to be heard by the people—and by their representatives in the legislative halls of their states and their nation.

But, there was another far more compelling and unselfish reason for the bringing together of these veterans. It was inspired by the experiences of the men who had fought our first first-scale war beyond our own shores. The war against Spain had been waged with inferior equipment, with food that often was unfit for human consumption; poor medical facilities, and with men who, though their courage was unsurpassed, were woefully untrained.

More than any group of Americans, these men recognized the tragedy of being unprepared for war. They were deeply conscious of the suffering and losses in human lives that an untrained and poorly-equipped army must endure.

There were many leaders throughout the nation who foresaw the need for an organization composed of overseas veterans. The same basic idea was claiming the attention of veterans in several parts of the country. In Pennsylvania, Colorado, Ohio, New Jersey, and other states, similar-minded veterans were banding together—eager to give their combined support to the patriotic objectives which were common to all.

Finally, when the clouds of the first World War were settling over Europe, these scattered groups realized that they could be a better force for the good of America if they would combine their efforts. As a result, delegates from the several groups assembled in Denver in September, 1913. After much deliberation, they voted to merge all the groups into one single nationwide veterans society to be known as the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States.

Throughout the succeeding years, the Veterans of Foreign Wars won the respect of the American people as the "Gold Chevron organization" because its members have earned the right to wear gold chevrons, or bars, the U.S. Army badge of overseas service in time of war.

The V.F.W. has carved a permanent place for itself in our nation's history by serving in peace as well as in war.

Today, the Veterans of Foreign Wars comprises more than ten thousand Posts, or local units, in communities throughout the nation, in its territories and possessions, and in several foreign countries. There are, in addition, some seven thousand Ladies Auxiliaries.

Much of the legislation which has been enacted by the Congress to provide benefits for the men who fought our wars, and for the survivors of those who failed to return, stands as a monument to the untiring effort and sacrifice of our membership.

With our entry into World War II came a new challenge for service. The record of the V.F.W. was already favorably known to the youth of America. As a result, the nation's new army of overseas fighting men flocked to our ranks, increasing our numerical strength sixfold.

The so-called G.I. Bill of Rights for World War II veterans embodied the basic principles of many separate laws previously sponsored by the V.F.W.

One of our chief functions as an organization is maintenance of a National Rehabilitation Service. This service, operating in all of the 48 states, is supported largely by funds raised through the annual sale of V.F.W. Buddy Poppies.

Another V.F.W. activity of which we are very proud is our National Home, at Eaton Rapids, Mich., for the widows and orphans of our comrades.

Through its Department of Americanism, the Veterans of Foreign Wars carries on a continuous campaign to preserve and expand the principles of democracy. Our Americanism Department conducts a year-in, year-out drive to expose the evils of communism and other subversive doctrines. It sponsors and encourages community service projects of all kinds.

The fighting men who compose the Veterans of Foreign Wars are the most ardent champions of preparedness. We have asked Congress to set up a defense system that will be adequate to cope with any sudden emergency.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars is holding high the banner of human liberty, of justice, of peace and understanding among all the peoples of the world. We are carrying on the crusade that had its beginning fifty years ago. We ask no more than that the American people—and the free peoples throughout the rest of the world continue to work with us—to pray with us—to die with us if need be—to preserve the God-given heritage of freedom and happiness and peace.

A little belated, but still of interest to parents and many other readers, is a report on the Progressive Achievement Tests given recently to all Warren school students, with the exception of the first grade, and statistics which show them to be above the national standards.

Study of the average median achievement of grades two to nine shows local students are five months above the national standard. Since senior high schools are more concerned with credits than grade medians, the students there were ranked from one to 100, with pupils in Warren High School 10% above those of the nation.

The tests included reading, arithmetic and language. Reading was divided into knowledge of words and ability to understand reading material. Arithmetic was divided into ability to add, multiply, subtract and divide, and to solve written problems. Language was divided into the ability to use capital letters, punctuation, to use complete sentences, grammar, spelling and handwriting.

In comparing the three parts of the test, Warren students were best in reading, then language and arithmetic. In the first two subjects, grades two to nine were seven months ahead of the nation and grades 10 to 12 were 15% and 12% ahead, respectively. In arithmetic, grades two to nine were three months ahead, while grades 10 to 12 were 8% ahead.

More than 200,000 cases were used in determining the educational standards. The tests were given in different parts of the country, to varying types of schools to be sure the standards were correct. Twenty states and approximately one-half million pupils were included in the basic information study made during their preparation.

Community Youth Parties In News For Current Week

Community parties for upper school grades and teen-agers are a regular activity in Warren, but it is learned this morning that the smaller fry will have their turn on Saturday afternoon of this week.

A community party for youngsters of grades one, two, three and four has been planned at Beatty Junior High School from two until four o'clock in the afternoon and it is anticipated there will be a record turnout.

Games will be supervised by Girl Scout leaders, headed by Mrs. Arthur Chapman, and an entertaining movie will be shown by Archie Hunter.

The community party committee reports there were 67 young people in the group which came from Titusville for last Saturday night's youth event at Beatty building. The visitors brought their band for dancing and some special entertainment for the floor show.

John Powers, director of music in Colestock High School, directed the orchestra of eight pieces. Sally Brown, with a very lovely voice, was the band's featured soloist.

Don Bishop, a teacher in Titusville Junior High School and one of the Hi-Y Club sponsors, was master of ceremonies for the floor show numbers. Vocal solo by John Davidson; dance, Anne Rowe; impersonations, Mary Lou Riggs; vocal solo, Elizabeth Lowers. Carolyn Morris was accompanist for the entertainers.

The affair proved to be lots of fun for all concerned and the hope was unanimously expressed that more exchange parties may be arranged next year with the Titusville young people.

Bill Schellhammer, Dick Stone, Jim Albaugh, Peggy Henderson and Nick Mangus have details all complete for the program to be presented by local talent for the young people of the "Rec" in Jamestown on Friday night of this week.

This party will be held in the YMCA and a bus is being chartered to take the local young people. It will leave Warren High School at 7:15 p. m. and anyone wishing to make reservations for transportation is asked to contact Peggy Henderson.

Market Quotations

New York, April 6—(P)—Selected stocks attracted buying support in today's market but the general tone was downward. For less than half an hour after the opening bell, the market seemed to be trying to get ahead but the effort did not carry through. Changes either way ran from fractions to around a point. Trading slowed immediately after an active opening.

TAKES NEW POSITION

The many friends of Henry V. Anderson, son of V. A. Anderson, Pennsylvania avenue, west, will be interested to learn that he has taken over his new position as general manager of the Youngstown, O., club of the Mid-Atlantic League, under his contract with the Philadelphia Athletics. The team, a farm club of the Athletics, is in spring training in Georgia, in a camp formerly used by the Dodgers. Although Anderson is in Youngstown awaiting for the opening of the league season, he has been teaching physical education and coaching football at North East.

but actual construction may not start for several years. The school district was granted an advance of $8,600 in connection with the federal government's post-war planning program. The state, in its post-war planning program, has also provided a grant. These grants have been set up so that when conditions change, plans may already have been made and approved. Both state and federal governments have fixed the final date for approval of plans as April 15, 1949.

The contemplated Johnson building will have 17 rooms or units, one of which will be a kindergarten room. There will be three over-size units for the first grade. A small auditorium, a playroom which can be divided into two rooms, a library, a nature study-art room, and nine other rooms for regular classes will make up the remainder of the instructional units. Offices, health rooms and other accommodations are provided.

While the Johnson building is in the process of construction, the pupils not transferred to Home street will be transferred to the South street building.

When these two elementary buildings are completed, attendance areas will be changed slightly. The southern boundary of the Home street district will be moved two blocks farther south, making the greatest distance any pupil will have to travel 3,800 feet. Formerly, some fifth grade pupils and currently some sixth grade pupils must travel over a mile to the Johnson building if they live at the north end of the Home street area.

The boundary of the Johnson district on the east end will be moved three blocks farther east, making the greatest distance 3,300 feet. The west boundary of the Lacy district will be moved three blocks farther west, making the greatest distance from the west side of the Lacy district not in excess of 3,800 feet.

These distances are not excessive compared with certain distances which some pupils in other portions of the borough must travel. Some pupils, grades one to six, from the east end of Lacy district must travel 3,700 feet. Some fifth and sixth grade pupils on the south side must travel considerably in excess of this distance in attending East street school, and some pupils in grades one to six attending East street school must travel over 3,800 feet.

The cost of the new Johnson building is estimated at $384,000, which will have to be financed by a bond issue approved by the voters. The state constitution limits at 7% of the assessed valuation the bonded indebtedness of the school district, placing a ceiling of $740,000 on the amount the district can borrow.

At present there are bonds in the amount of $275,000 still outstanding from the building programs of 1929 and later years. This, together with the proposed $384,000 new bond issue, uses all but $31,000 of the district's borrowing power. Obviously after the new school is built, it will be many years before any additional major construction will be possible.

A new high school is the only other building urgently needed, but at present costs it is doubtful if even the district's total borrowing power of $740,000 is enough for the type of modern high school Warren needs.

Inquiry Into State Public Assistance Program May Win Approval

other secret 14-8 ballot. Democratic senators, meanwhile, protested strongly in the senate against secret committee votes.

Previously he and three other Democratic senators voted against a motion for a secret ballot on FEPC. All Republican members except Sens. John Meade and Berttram Frazer (R-Phila.) sponsors of the FEPC measure, voted for the motion.

The relief investigation proposed by Senators A and Wood would be made by a special 15-member commission with authority to summon witnesses, to examine records and to inquire into qualifications of public assistance personnel.

Congress In Role of Ump Over Dispute

Washington, April 6—(P)—Congress may take the role of umpire in professional baseball's "reserve clause" controversy.

Without ruling directly on that issue, it may get a chance soon to determine whether baseball and other organized sports are subject to interstate commerce restrictions and can be used in federal courts.

The supreme court held some years ago that baseball is not interstate commerce.

But since then a federal district court said it could rule on a suit against baseball by Danny Gardella, former New York Giant outfielder, because radio broadcasts and television now carry ball games across state lines.

Gardella is seeking a court order to end his suspension from organized baseball for jumping to the Mexican League in 1946. He also has filed a $300,000 anti-trust suit against baseball.

The Gardella case and other suits now pending in federal courts would not be affected by any congressional action.

But bills to exempt organized professional sports from anti-trust prosecution were introduced yesterday in the house by Reps. Mills (D-Ark) and Herlong (D-Fla), the latter a former president of the Florida State Baseball League.

Chairman Cresser (D-Ohio) disclosed today that some of the big names of the sports world may be called to testify at a house commerce committee hearing tentatively set for April 14.

A list of possible witnesses includes the names of Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler, Bill Veeck, head of the Cleveland Indians; Bob Feller and Satchel Paige, Cleveland pitchers; Joe M. Maggio of the New York Yankees; Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox; Jackie Robinson of the Brooklyn Dodgers; Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals; William Harbridge and Ford Frick, heads of the two major baseball leagues; Branch Rickey, Connie Mack and Clark Griffith, owners of major league teams in Brooklyn, Philadelphia and Washington; Mickey Owen, suspended Brooklyn catcher, who jumped to the Mexican League, and Gardella.

perts consider this the key question. The basic difficulty is whether each of the three powers should have a veto or whether decisions should be reached by an affirmative vote of two of them.

4. Centralization versus decentralization within the proposed new German government system. Essentially the question is whether Germany should have a strong or a weak central government. If the central government is to be sharply restricted in its powers, the German state government will be relatively stronger. The British are reported thus far to have favored the German Socialist insistence on a highly centralized government, whereas the French at the other extreme want a federalized government structure with the states retaining considerable power.

5. Shifts in the zonal boundary between the American occupation area and the French occupation area in order to facilitate administration. This is regarded as a fairly minor though persistent issue.

Association Plans Holy Week Meetings

Once again, the Warren County Ministerial Association will sponsor the community observance of Holy Week, its special services committee arranging both the noonday services and the three-hour worship on Good Friday afternoon.

The noonday services, to be held Monday through Thursday, will be, as usual, from 12:10 to 12:50 p. m. in the First Baptist church on Market street, readily accessible from the center of town.

The community Good Friday service will again be held in the First Methodist church, Market street at Second avenue, beginning at 12 noon and continuing until three o'clock.

Details concerning speakers and music for both these services will be announced later.

Instructor Returns From State Meeting

Warren E. Miller, teacher of distributive education in Warren High School and president of the Northwestern District, Pennsylvania State Education Association, has returned from Philadelphia where he attended a meeting of the state executive council.

Dr. Francis Haas, superintendent of the Department of Public Instruction, was present at the session, called to evaluate the legislative program for teachers' retirement subsidy and salaries, and commented very favorably on the teachers' legislative proposals.

Presiding over the session, which was held in the University of Pennsylvania in conjunction with the Pennsylvania Schoolmen's Association, was Dr. David Stewart, president of the PSEA.

Mr. Miller combined attendance at the schoolmen's meeting with his trip to the executive committee's session.

Boro Council At Youngsville Holds Meeting

Youngsville borough council, at its meeting held Monday evening, considered routine business for the most part.

Bills in the amount of approximately $1600.00 were ordered paid from the proper accounts and purchase of $5000.00 in Series G bonds was authorized from surplus funds in the water account.

The police report showed $85 in fines collected during March and parking meters yielding $244.03 in collections. Three arrests for motor vehicle violations were recorded during the month.

An application for a taxi franchise in Youngsville was laid aside for checking with the borough attorney.

Permission was given the Pennsylvania Unemployment Board to occupy an office in the city building each Thursday to take care of claims in Youngsville and vicinity.

The borough's annual clean-up days were set for Friday and Saturday, May 6 and 7. The matter of daylight saving time was held over until a later meeting until it was known what Warren would do on the question. Also held over was the purchase of portable scales for the checking of overweight vehicles.

Four residential construction permits were approved, of which three were for new homes. Archie Allabaugh will build a new home on Sixth street; John S. Papalia will build on East Main street; and Ted Yucha will build on North Main street. A permit for additions and alterations was issued to Willard Lohnes.

No decision was arrived at on the recently imposed tax on juke boxes and pinball machines. Council adjourned to the call of the president.

On Murder's Skirts

Chapter 20

WHEN Ellen came to, it was pitch dark in the room. Her back ached and she realized she had been lying on the hard floor for some time. Suddenly she remembered. Something—someone had struck her. She lay very still, scarcely daring to breathe.

Nothing happened. She opened her eyes cautiously and then got up a little at a time. She turned on the light and looked around. Nothing was out of place. She crossed over into the bedroom, turning on lights as she went. She looked under the bed and in the closets. Satisfied that no one was there, she went through the apartment and locked all the windows. She made sure that the door was locked and then got out a telephone book. Quickly she dialed a number.

A cold impersonal voice answered immediately. "University Hospital."

"Hello. Is Dr. Dennis Rafferty there?"

"Dr. Rafferty is not on duty now."

"Will you ring his room, please?"

"I'm sorry," the voice cooed. "Dr. Rafferty does not receive calls after midnight."

Ellen looked at her watch. It was just two A.M. Her head was beginning to throb.

"I must talk to Dr. Rafferty immediately. It's terribly important."

"I'll connect you with Emergency."

"No, don't do that. This is something personal."

"Well," said the operator dubiously. As she hesitated, Ellen suddenly found herself saying:

"It's quite all right. This is his fiancée."

"Oh, just a minute, please." The voice was very apologetic.

It took a very long minute and then she heard his voice.

"Rafferty," he sounded sleepy. "This is Ellen Carter, Dr. Rafferty."

"Oh, yes." She couldn't see him but he was wide awake now and grinning. "I was wondering which fiancée it was."

She spoke rapidly. "I'm sorry to get you up at this hour, but I didn't know whether to call the police. I mean, did you go to the— you know." Her voice trailed off miserably.

"You can stop worrying, Ellen," he said gently. "I haven't done anything yet. We still have until Monday."

"Oh! Well, could you come over here right away?"

"What's up?"

"I've had a visitor and he's left me with a large 'bump' on my head."

"Is it bleeding?" he asked sharply.

"No, it just hurts."

"I'll be right over. Put a cold towel on it until I get there." He sounded rather impersonal and professional.

Chapter 21

ELLEN looked up at Raff adoringly. "It's wonderful knowing that you're going to take good care of me." Then she went over to the table near the couch and took a cigarette from the box. She struck a match to it and came up to Raff and blew the smoke in his face.

He sighed. "Something tells me I shall probably beat you after we're married. Now, about this intruder. Any idea whether it was a man or a woman?"

"I couldn't tell at the time but now I think it was a man. There are some tracks over here near the kitchen. They're badly smudged, but you can see they're way too big for a woman." She led him over to the window near the kitchen alcove.

"Looks like a man, all right. And it's easy to see how he got in. Don't suppose you keep this window locked?"

"No, I never used to."

Raff said, "Of course, it might have been just a burglar. But I have a hunch this is connected with Bray's murder."

Ellen shivered involuntarily.

"Feel faint?" he asked quickly. She shook her head. "Not at all. I think I'm just hungry."

He laughed. "I guess you must be all right then. I could do with a bite myself."

"What's wrong with the Carter kitchen? Come on; I'll fix us something."

He followed her into the little kitchen. "Can you really cook? I think I may buy you a ring after all."

"Well, to confess, I really don't do much cooking. But don't let that worry you. You can buy me a cook book. I already know how to read."

And have me get indigestion from a misprint! No thanks. If you don't mind, I'll fix us a snack." He opened the icebox door and brought out some eggs and some cream cheese.

She put a skillet on the stove and handed him a bowl for the eggs.

How about some coffee?

She filled the coffee pot and put it on to boil. He busied himself with the omelette and said nothing for a while.

"Let me see, now," Raff said presently. "We were at the Red Poppy about a half-hour. And say another twenty minutes until you got home."

"What are you thinking of?"

"Nothing in particular."

"Yes, you are. You're thinking that Paul Russell had plenty of time to get over here. Now aren't you?"

"Well, yes, I was," he said slowly.

"I was thinking the same thing. But why would Paul want to hurt me?"

"Maybe this was just a little warning. To stop snooping, you know. You see, I can't help thinking that so far, Russell's the only one who knows that we know Bray was murdered."

"Absolutely," she said decisively. "If you had given me a chance before this I would have explained the lipstick on him. After all, when kissing is purely voluntary on my part I usually don't aim for just one corner of the mouth."

He pinched her cheek. "Anyway, it was probably a burglar who was scared away before he could burgle much," he said.

"Let's eat."

He carried the steaming plates to the table and a moment later they were eating.

"How's the coffee department?" he asked.

"Coming right up." She got the cups and poured two steaming cups of coffee.

"Here you are." She reached for the sugar.

"Oh, I almost forgot," she said. "You don't take sugar in your coffee, either." She stopped speaking and stared at the sugar bowl.

"What's the matter?" he asked, watching her closely.

"Nothing," she said, "except that I don't ever keep a spoon in the sugar bowl. The cover doesn't fit tightly that way." She went up closer to it and picked up the bowl. "And all this sugar spilled around here. I wonder—"

He got up quickly, grabbed the sugar bowl from her, and put a pinch of sugar in his hand. From his pocket he pulled a small lens. Under the light he examined the bit of sugar in his hand. Then he gingerly put his tongue to it. He spit it out immediately and rinsed his mouth with water. Then he took the bowl and emptied the contents into the sink and flushed it down the drain.

Ellen watched him, mystified.

"That wasn't just a burglar, dear," he said grimly. "That was someone trying to murder you. There was cyanide in that sugar!"

Auto Markets Always Stump Experts

As it has for over 45 years, motor vehicle ownership in the U.S. continues today to rise at a faster rate than ever predicted. There are about 41 million cars, trucks and buses in operation across the nation today—about two million more than the Public Roads Administration said, in 1946, would be in use by 1950. This chart shows the rise of the automotive market, according to the magazine Automobile Facts, and some of the erstwhile "predictions."

Nations Plan to Harness Nile and Make Deserts Bloom

RELIGIOUS LANDS of Egypt and other African countries are seen flowering anew in a huge scheme being launched by the governments of British Uganda and Egypt. The scheme envisages the use of the waters of the Nile to make millions of acres and the peoples who live on them free from the bondage of drought and to provide electric power for farms and factories. The first stage, costing the equivalent of $45,000,000, is a dam in Central Africa at Owen Falls, Jinja, Uganda, where the White Nile pours from Lake Victoria on its long journey to join the Blue Nile on the way to Egypt and the sea. The dam is visualized above in a drawing made from reports of two British engineering firms. Egypt's gain will principally be cultivable land and Uganda's power. African neighbors also benefit from power or land are the Sudan and Tanganyika and possibly the Belgian Congo.

Kane Wins State "B" Crown; Ashley Five Enters Protest

Farrell, Pa., April 6—(P)—Ashley High school officials said today they will protest the "last-second" field goal which apparently gave Kane a 45-44 victory over the State PIAA Class B Basketball championship last night.

Coach Si Jablonski and Principal George Breznay of Ashley say the goal was shot after the game was over. They want Ashley, eastern play, for company-to-brunch for regional winner, declared state champion.

At Pittsburgh, C. Edmund Wicht, PIAA executive secretary, said he had not received a written protest and would take no action until he did.

Wicht, who attended the game, said he received a verbal complaint from Principal Breznay immediately after the final whistle. Wicht said he could not act on a verbal complaint. He declined to say what action he would take on a written protest.

The crowd of 2,600 saw a beautiful game last night in Farrell High gymnasium. It was a nip-and-tuck affair. No team ever got more than 8 points ahead. The score was tied six times, four times in the last quarter.

Ashley trailed two points, 33-31, at the end of the third quarter. Then the Luzerne county boys really dug their toes in and, with 15 seconds of the game remaining, they made a 44-43 lead. Kane muffed a free throw. Then, just as the electric wall-clock signaled game's end, another foul was called on Ashley.

Referee Yans Wallace walked to the official timekeeper and asked if any time was left. He was told two or three seconds remained.

Jim Thompson went to the foul line—and again Kane muffed a chance to tie.

But while other players, thinking the game was over, stood motionless around the foul circle, Don Frasse, a substitute guard for Kane, jumped forward and tipped the ball in. Wallace ruled the shot good.

The rubbin of the dispute is: Which is the official time—that shown by the wall-clock or that shown by the timer's watch? Referee Wallace said:

"So far as we officials are concerned, there was time left. The goal was made while the game was under way."

Secretary Wicht commented: "Some good may come out of this unfortunate occurrence. It looks as if the PIAA will have to register and train timers just as it does referees and umpires." The excitement about the protest obscured the best work of the game. It was done by Ashley's six-foot-three center, Slim Dank-off, who racked up nine field goals and five fouls for 23 points, more than any other two players on both teams.

Neither Kane nor Ashley had won a state title before.

Warren Bowlers to Get Big Slice of ABC Prize Melon

Warren bowlers who competed in the American Bowling Congress tenpin tournament at Atlantic City over the weekend will get a nice slice of the prize-money melon when it is cut.

The Sylvania Radio Tube team finished well up in the money bracket with its 2766 score in the five-man event. The Knights of Columbus team also posted a 2648 score, two pins above the present prize qualifying score of 2646, but it is likely this mark will fall before the tourney ends Saturday.

The present low qualifying score in the doubles bracket is 1070. This mark was bettered by four doubles squads including Myron and Robert Check with 1214; Fred Gagliardi and Frank Gerardi with 1161; Sam Cosmano and Pete Juliano with 1111; and Jim Thomas and Harry Wooster with 1098.

Minimum low prize score at present in the singles event is 544, and this mark was topped by seven of the 20 local bowlers to take part. Harry Wooster led the local squad with 601 on linescores of 182, 188 and 231.

Several of the Warren bowlers also will get a share of the prize money in the all-events division. These include Bob Check with 1812; Jim Urbanski with 1678; Harry Wooster with 1678; and Pete Juliano with 142.

Local firing in the ABC also was highlighted by Harold Clepper's conversion of the 4-7-10 split in the first frame of the first game, and his picking up of the 6-7-10 split in the same game.

The Sylvania team members each will get a case of Wheaties for the high team score posted on Sunday—April 3, for the tourney, and an additional case of breakfast food goes to Myron Check for his 232 score.

Scores of local bowlers in the ABC were:

Area Director Comments On New Controls

Area Rent Director Frank S. Anderson said today that the new rent control extension act represents "a considerable strengthening" of the previous law, and he asserted that the new "fair net operating income" adjustment provision does not make the Act administratively unworkable.

Mr. Anderson listed eight improvements in the new act over the old one. At the same time he said that other new features of the new act which have been interpreted by some as weakening federal rent control "are either of minor importance or they simply represent a new, but not necessarily weaker, way of dealing with certain problems."

He pointed, for example, to the authority given in the act to states and incorporated cities, towns and villages to deal with the approval of the governor. This, Mr. Anderson said, merely represents an extension of the principle underlying the operation of local rent advisory boards of granting greater discretion to local authorities to say whether or not federal rent control is necessary in their localities.

The "fair net operating income" provision, the rent director said, is a liberalization of existing regulations for granting financial adjustments. "This provision," he explained, "will take care particularly of any small landlords who may not be obtaining an adequate net operating income. The law leaves it up to the Housing Expediter to determine what is a fair net operating income. It clearly does not involve an administratively unworkable plan of fair return on some valuation, nor does it mean a general rent increase for all tenants. It is merely a continuation of a trend in our adjustment provisions which has been taking place over the past two years."

Mr. Anderson pointed out that during the past year, under a special adjustment provision, increases have been permitted for landlords who were operating at a loss.
